Largest Private System To Begin Use Saturday

THE LARGEST private telephone exchange in the Mountain State area will be placed in service at Brigham Young University Saturday.

At a cost of $220,000, the new system is being centered in the basement of the new Joseph F. Smith Family Living Center.

It is big enough to handle the telephone communications of a city larger than Springville, and will combine into one large exchange the present dial system of the academic offices and the manual exchange of the university residence halls.

TELEPHONE officials have chosen Saturday at 6:30 a.m. as zero hour because telephone traffic is light at that time. At the precise moment, technicians in the new exchange will pull columns of strings which remove blocks from the relays and activate the long batteries of line-finder switches of the dial system.

At the same time other workers with large shears will sever the old cables in the BYU service tunnels under the campus and in the equipment room of the Eyring Science Center, putting the present system out of service.

RECENTERING of the cable and installation of equipment at the new location has required 10,000 man hours by Western Electric workmen.

The new exchange will have 200 trunks to the central office downtown and a complete dial system with 2500 numbers. This could be expanded without further installation to 300 trunk lines and 5000 numbers as BYU progresses with its multi-million-dollar construction program of housing and academic buildings.

Thereafter the exchange could be expanded indefinitely in the spacious quarters provided in the basement of the Family Living Center.

IT WAS EXACTLY five years ago that Brigham Young University went to its present dial system in the Eyring Science Center from the old one-position manual board in the Mac-

Policy Shift Voted On in IOC Meet

by Gene Barlow
Daily Universe Writer

THE INTER - Organization Council in an activity packed meeting Monday night voted two students into office and announced several new IOC procedures.

Receiving a majority vote were Nancy Briggs, IOC prosecuting attorney, and Jim Scott, assistant prosecuting attorney.

Recent concern of the authority of Miss Briggs was brought about when it was learned that Miss Briggs held other executive positions in both TKA, national honorary debate society, and Forensic Council while acting as IOC prosecuting attorney.

According to the IOC rules, the prosecuting attorney "must hold no other executive position in any organization on campus."

THE MAJORITY vote confirming Miss Briggs as prosecuting attorney also waived the constitutional clause regarding the holding of executive positions.

Jim Webster, Bricker president, is investigating the legality of a waiver of the constitution and will report to the IOC at its next meeting.

Russ Peasant Portrayal Set For Assembly

Cougarettes, freshman girls' pep unit, and Tau Sigma, men's social unit, are presenting "Ivan and Igor" at the student assembly Thursday.

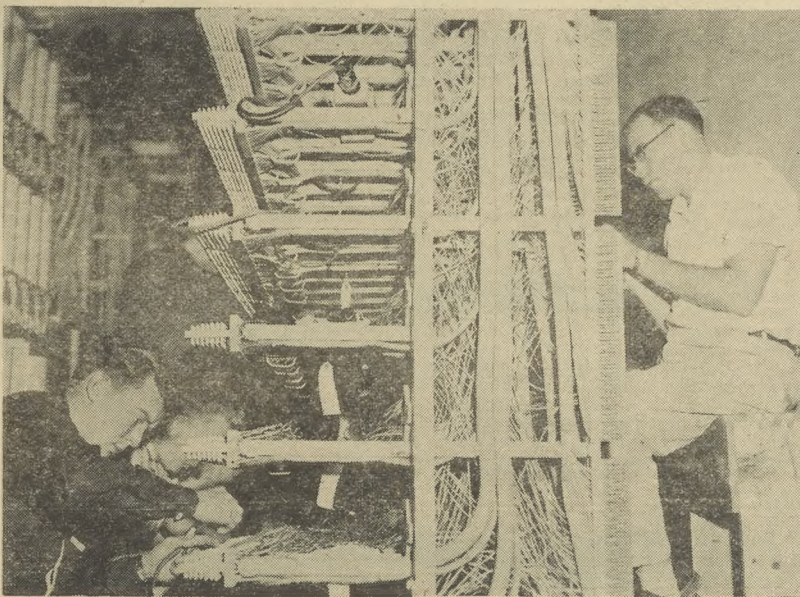

"Ivan and Igor" is the name of the script written by Alan Miner, Grantsville, general assembly chairman.

The theme centers around two Russian peasants who wonder what the "outside" world is like. Upon reading a book, the pair visualize different parts of the world including New York, England, Arabia, Paris and others.

Singers and dancers from Cougarettes and Tausigs portray the different places. A sextette composed of Cougarettes will sing "The Last Time I Saw Paris" in the Paris sequence. The visit to England will feature two Tausigs in a comedy routine.

Tamsin Kirk, Cougarette from Glendale, Calif., will assist Miner as general chairman. Publicity for the affair will be handled by Bill Martin, Stockton Calif., and Clare Schroeter, Brookfield, Ill.

Other committee members are production chairmen Phil Nolen, La Mesa, Calif., and Becky Campbell, Phoenix, Ariz.; programs, Bob Ainsworth, Van Nuys, Calif., and Mary Lou Ellison, Portland, Ore.; scenery, Rock Sant, Salt Lake City, and Shirley Robinson, Richfield; and costumes by Sherry Ann Green, Salt Lake City.

Bibler Character Elections Today

TWENTY-FOUR candidates for Brigham Young University's Bibler personalities of 1957 will be introduced at the studentbody assembly Thursday by Verland Whipple, last year's Worthal.

Students will vote for the persons they think are best suited for Louise Lush, Professor Snarf, and Worthal honors. Ballots will be printed on the back of the announcement sheets.

WINNERS of the titles will be announced during intermission time of the Daily Universe-sponsored Bibler Bounce Friday night. They will be presented a scroll and certificate signifying their election to the honorary titles.

Candidates for Professor Snarf are E. A. Butler, Earl M. Christensen, Dr. Selby Clark, Albert Swensen, Howard Larsen, Harold I. Hansen, David L. Evans, Ralph Laycock.

LOUISE LUSH nominations are Karen Jensen, Myrtle Redmon, Jeanne McCune, JoAnn Thompson, Kay Halladay, Ginee Hopkins, Florence Christie, Virginia Johnson and LeAnne Ponder.

Worthal hopefuls are Gary Davis, Alyric Ray, Scott Farmer, Dale Wright, Ron Safsten, Joe Kirk, Dwain Hyatt.

Cultural Radio Show Set

A new radio show is being launched over KBYU beginning at 4 p. m. Thursday. The show known as the Stalag Hour will feature entertainment on the intellectual and cultural level.

Skip Nelson from Bellflower, Calif., winner of the all around entertainers trophy last year will M. C. the show and jockey the discs.

The dance will begin immediately after the basketball game. The Y's Men will play music at the Smith Fieldhouse, Continentals at the Smith Ballroom, Collegians at the Social Hall. Another ballroom will be used, which will be announced Friday.

THERE WILL be no advance ticket sales. Tickets will be sold at the doors of various halls until the allotted number has been sold. Price is 50 cents stag and 75 cents drag. Dress is sport.

Editorial staff members of the Utah State Student Life and University of Utah Daily Chronicle will be guests of the Daily Universe editorial staff at the ball game and dance.

Ginee Hopkins is suited for Louise Lush because she spends her free time "Gossiping, snooping, spying, meddling, asking, tattling, newsmongering, sneaking."

BOTANIST—Earl M. Christensen specializes in giving his students dry and disorganized lectures and tests on irrelevant matters.

CURVEY—Kay Halladay was nominated for Louise because she blissfully floats in a perpetual fog. She is known as a clever, curvey coed.

FOR SNARF—According to signers of his nominating petition, Dr. Selby Clark stands curly head and shoulders above any other candidate MUSICIAN — Ralph Laycock must have a dry wit to play the arrangements he gives his concert band students, according to petitioners.

LUSH — Ginee Hopkins has spent every summer since she was four selling popcorn in the ElRay. She goes by the name Lillie St. Hopkins.

IT DON'T SEEM TO PAY

MAKING RAIDS on the Brigham Young University campus, which seems to have become a vogue during the past year, has not been at all profitable for those who have planned and executed the forays.

The latest raid, in which the old Y Bell and its attached trailer were stolen from the Smith Fieldhouse, resulted in the apprehension of four students and former student from the University of Utah.

SOLUTION OF the six-day-old crime turned out to be a relatively simple matter and leads to the conclusion that those who plan and participate in these things are not only childish, but not too smart—despite their supposedly mature years and status on the education ladder.

The consistent failure of these forays—especially to the BYU campus—should eventually discourage that small group of individuals who seem to feel their physical composition calls for this type of activity to prove themselves whole men.

PACKING AN extra potent punch in deterring these youngsters is the point that those who executed the latest in the series of raids are liable to criminal prosecution and may be sentenced to a term in jail or fined a fair-sized chunk of money.

First recent defeat of these raiders came last spring when a group were caught by students and security police as they painted red "U" figures on the Smith Fieldhouse and burned a "U" in the lawn between the McKay Building and Eyring Science Center. Names of these students were turned over to the University of Utah administration for action.

SEVERAL DAYS later a group of BYU men latched onto a few more Utah men students who were attempting to burn another "U" in a BYU lawn—this time near the Heritage Halls patio. These names were turned over to the Utah administration for action.

Last fall a Utah student was grabbed as he attempted to set fire to a paper napkin "Y" outside the Smith Fieldhouse during a Berlin Philharmonic concert. Arson charges were filed against him in Provo courts.

NOW, THE UTAH officials are considering a suitable punishment for four men students—fraternity members—who have embarrassed that university by their thievery of the Y Bell and its trailer.

These stunts—no matter which institution they are aimed at—are very embarrassing to the home university of the individual who thinks he is pulling a cute trick.

Past experience with the pranksters—who are not pranksters at all, but actually engaging in a bit of malicious mischief—indicates that they aren't really too intelligent—they seem to get themselves caught with gratifying regularity.

A little wise counsel in the direction of constructive projects would do well to improve all concerned—and the risk of disciplinary action is reduced quite some little.

Space To Move ...

Dear Editor:

I was interested in your recent editorial comments on the cost of the Prom and evening. At the beginning of the year I did some research on dances for the Second Vice President of the Studentbody, Darrel Walker. There are some interesting facts which could be brought to the attention of the students at this time.

The recorded attendance at the Prom last year was 1,400 couples, 700 each evening. The Physical Plant lists this as capacity for the Fieldhouse East Gym. Anyone who attended the dance will remember that both evenings were crowded. It must be realized therefore, that the capacity of a hall is lessened considerably when formals are worn. "If a 'capacity' crowd makes it difficult to dance at a semi-formal dance, what will happen when the Prom Committee tries to put 800 couples in the Fieldhouse, which is their intention?"

Also, the Prom last year went $800 in the red. This can be accounted for in the extra cost of the name band, advertising, extra decorations, finer refreshments, and many other "extras." This year the committee is trying ing to make up that difference by selling 200 more tickets. They hope, will make the dance pay for itself. But what will the dance be like with 150 extra couples dancing where we can otherwise have space to move? It all boils down to one question: "Do we want to have Prom that will pay for itself, do we want to enjoy a 'real nice' dance?" At present price we cannot have a dance pay for itself without being too crowded to move. No one can enjoy formal dance that is too crowded.

Don A. Crandall
Chairman Dances Committee

(Ed. Note: Prom Committee reports measures being adopted to cut down the total number of dancers on the floor at one time, i.e. refreshment period will take 160 couples from floor, leaving 640 dancing. Cutting by the committee in termination, refreshments & decorations should cut to price, even though the ball costs several hundred dollars more than last year, according to Roger Victor, chairman.)

38 Percent Believe U.S. Goofed ...

Suez Crisis Mixes Student Opinion

MINNEAPOLIS — (ACP) — Comment was varied and vociferous in many quarters when England and France landed armed forces in the Suez Canal area recently. Many people abhorred the Anglo-French action, but felt the United States should have stood by its allies. Others thought France and England should have notified us of their intended action and due to this breach of faith we were justified in supporting United Nations action against France and England.

In order to get the general reaction of the collegiate public on this issue Associated Collegiate Press asked the following question of a representative national cross-section of college students:

Do you think the U. S. has erred in relation to its foreign policy in the Suez Canal, Egypt, and the Near East crisis? Why?

The results:

	M	W	Tot.
Yes	38%	32%	36%
No	42%	31%	38%
Undecided	20%	37%	26%

By far the overwhelming majority of those who believe the United States has erred, hold the opinion that much of the trouble is due to our failure to adopt a strict policy, which bothers our allies, causes us to lose prestige, and permits the Communists to fill the power vacuum. Some students felt the Aswan dam issue started the squabble. Others blame John Foster Dulles, our Secretary of State, for the trouble. And some think we failed our allies. Here are several typical comments:

ing and otherwise making a nuisance of herself," write the persons who nominated her.

ACCORDING to petition signers, Kay Halladay is "Such a curvey clever creature. She wraps her oggling lab instructors around her little finger while swooning her male student companions."

Ralph Laycock was nominated for Professor Snarf "For reasons to numerous to mention, but mainly because of the mean tricks he is always pulling and his unscrupulous teasing testing methods."

DR. SELBY Clark petitioners say "We nominate him for Snarf because of his outstanding qualifications in the field of jet expulsion. He is an expert par excellence in panty raids, painted campus signs and finding cats in the belfry. He can spot a dull normal at fifty paces and his aim is 20-20."

U To Pay, Punish or Student Bell Theft

PREPARATIONS are being made for damages to the Y Bell and four University of Utah students are subject to disciplinary action by U of U officials for theft of the bell Jan. 11.

The bell was recovered by Brigham Young University security department last Friday after the license number of an automobile belonging to a former U of U student was traced. The offenders returned the bell to Provo from Salt Lake City under the guidance of Capt. L. Christensen, BYU security officer.

DAMAGE TO the bell—scratched paint—and its trailer bent wheel and broken tongue amounted to between $45 and $5, according to Dr. Wesley P. Lloyd, dean of students at BYU. Dean Lloyd emphasized that the studentbody officers and administration of Utah have taken "positive action" and adopted a cooperative attitude . . . with reference to the theft of the bell.

STUDENT officers of the University of Utah and the Dean of Students (Dr. Willard W. Messer) have shown no tendency to minimize the seriousness of the incident and are taking independent action that is completely satisfactory to BYU," Dean Lloyd said in telling of the measures being taken by Utah officials in acting on the theft.

Final action of the Utah administration against the four students involved—all members of the Kappa Sigma fraternity—has not been taken. Announcement is expected within the next few days concerning the case.

THE REMAINING problem being studied by BYU is a legal one," Dean Lloyd said Tuesday, involving the actual participants in an incident which in modern university life is not classified under the term "rank."

No indication was given as to action which will be taken concerning the fifth man involved in the theft.

A former Utah student, he is the owner of the automobile used to tow the bell from the Smith Fieldhouse, in full view of "about 100 athletes."

THEFT OF THE bell, which was undiscovered at BYU for five days, was reported in the Daily Chronicle, U of U student newspaper.

The Chronicle allegedly received a phone call from Logan during the bell would appear at a BYU-USAC basketball game Friday and that a trip to Canada is being planned for the bell. Subsequent investigation dis-

Public Relations Plan Meet Today

Studentbody Public Relations committee will hold a general meeting for all committee personnel and interested individuals in the Cabinet Room of the Student Service Center Thursday at 6:30 p.m.

Ted Johnson, public relations chairman, announced that the committee is working on three major projects and is in need of assistance from students who are anxious to work in student government.

This committee is in charge of off-campus studentbody relations, with on-campus relations, visitors and campus tours.

Questions Answered By IOC Concerning Policies, Spending

by Gene Barlow
Daily Universe Writer

MISH Hollingworth, Inter-Organization Council president, met recently with council members who signed a three-point petition against the IOC.

The petition, signed by sixteen campus organizations, was submitted to Hollingworth by Lowell Ashman, United States Club president, at the first IOC meeting of winter quarter.

Purpose of this petition was to establish the questioned authority of Nancy Briggs, IOC Court prosecuting attorney; to determine for what the IOC fund of $400 was being used; and to request more strict enforcement of the constitution concerning the organization's attendance at IOC meetings.

"We held this meeting with the 'signers,'" said Hollingworth, to answer any questions these members had concerning the petition. The first question brought up was the questioned authority of Miss Briggs.

HOLLINGWORTH admitted that a sustaining vote for Miss

Briggs was taken at an IOC meeting but accidentally omitted from the minutes. "A vote will be retaken at the next IOC meeting to put her in office," he said. If the "almost certain" majority does not materialize, a new prosecuting attorney will be nominated.

SPB Show Travels To Wendover AFB

The Student Program Bureau of Brigham Young University will present a variety show, Thursday night, to the airmen of the recently reactivated Wendover Air Base at Wendover, Utah.

According to Winston Christenson, Program Bureau chairman, the show will feature some of the outstanding talent from BYU.

Bryan Renstrom will be master of ceremonies and music will be furnished by the Y's Men Band under the direction of Dick Ballou.

Early Utah Talk Slated By Church History Prof.

Gustave O. Larsen, assistant professor of church history and philosophy, will talk on the early history of southern Utah at the meeting of the Sons of Utah Pioneers at 6:30 p. m. Thursday in 250 Smith Building.

He will trace the early explorations of the Mormon settlers and their pioneer centers at Cove Fort, the iron mines and foundries, and other points in the southern parts of the state.

The technology of guided missiles is literally a new domain. No field of engineering or science offers greater scope for creative achievement.

Research and development at Lockheed Missile Systems
Division cover virtually every field of engineering and science and have created new positions for graduates possessing outstanding ability in the following fields:

Electronics

Research and development as applied to missile systems and associated equipment.

Computers

For solution of complex problems and missile guidance.

Systems Engineering

Research and development in missile systems.

Antenna Design

Related to missile guidance.

Communications

In the broad area of information transmission.

Electromechanical Design

As applied to missile systems and related equipment.

Instrumentation

Associated with aerodynamics, physics and electronics.

Physics

Theoretical and experimental aero-physics, upper atmosphere research, optics, nuclear physics and spectroscopy.

Structures

Structural design and analysis of missile systems.

Thermodynamics

Aerodynamic heating and heat-transfer problems.

Aerodynamics

Concerning performance of missile systems.

Dynamics

As related to missile body flight problems.

Operations Research

Applied to tactical weapons operations.

Advanced Study Program

Graduates in Physics, Electrical, Aeronautical and Mechanical Engineering are invited to contact their Placement Officer regarding the Advanced Study Program which enables students to obtain their M.S. Degree while employed in their chosen field.

The complexity of missile systems research and development has created a number of positions for those completing their M.S. and Ph.D. degrees. The positions carry immediate responsibility commensurate with the advanced academic training and experience required.

Nurses Learn Training In Real-life Situation

by Barbara Miller

ONE OF THE MOST recent colleges added to Brigham Young University is that of nursing.

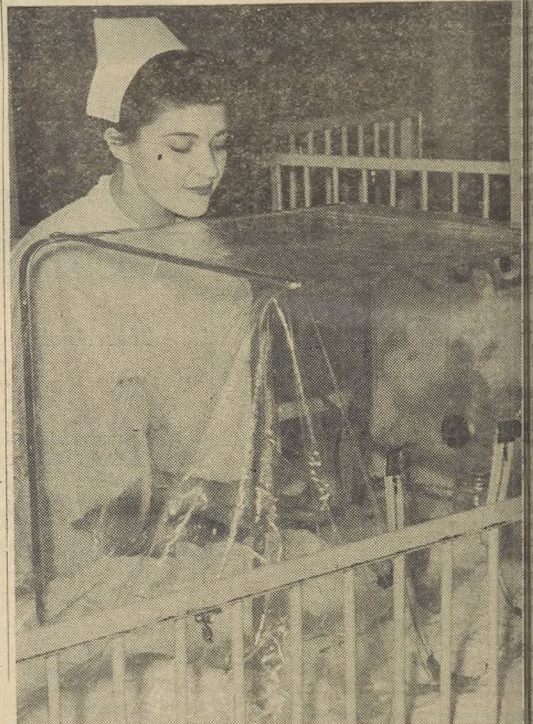

The College of Nursing was made an official part of BYU in 1951 and the first group of 24 qualified "angels of mercy," were graduated in the spring of 1956.

There are 181 coeds enrolled as nursing majors at the present time. They take classes on campus and also work on the actual scene at three different hospitals in the area. This on-the-spot experience brings to the students a sense of the reality and importance of the jobs they will perform after graduation.

AFTER CAMPUS PRACTICE in the practice wards of the Joseph F. Smith Family Living Center with mock patients, (dummies) the students don the uniforms and caps of student nurses and take up duties at the Utah State Hospital and the Utah Valley Hospital.

During the second year nursing majors live at the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints Nursing Home in Salt Lake City and work at the LDS Salt Lake Hospital.

Nursing majors may return to campus for two more quarters or public health experience before graduation.

After St. Mary's Game . . .

Cat Wrestlers Tangle With Utah Saturday, Look For Second Win

BRIGHAM Young University's Cougar wrestlers, a swash-buckling crew of sophomores and juniors, are ready, eager and confident that they'll tromp Utah Saturday night.

The dual meet between the two Beehive State rivals will be staged on the main floor of the George Albert Smith Fieldhouse following the St. Mary's-BYU basketball game.

Coach Allan Davis indicates that he is "tickled pink" about the way the team is coming along. The Cougars have a 1-1 record after being sacked by Utah State and then overcoming a 0-13 deficit to edge Western State 17-13.

THIS MAKES the Brigham Young matmen favorites to beat Utah who are 0-2 on the year after sustaining losses to Utah State and Western State.

"In our opening match against the Aggies a couple of our key men failed to make their weight divisions," complained Davis. "We improved against Western State. We'll be ready for Utah."

The eight BYU wrestlers who comprise the first team hail from seven different states with quite a diversity of experience.

Some of the Cat matmen were four-year lettermen and state champs in high school while others had never wrestled before coming to BYU.

Heavyweight DAVE HANKS a junior from Burley, Ida., is the only Cat grappler to win both of his first two matches. Hanks, 210-pound football tackle who was a first-team-all conference selection of INS, never wrestled before coming to BYU.

PAUL ECKEL wrestles in the 177-pound class and has been having difficulty getting down to that weight. An outstanding football prospect, Eckel, sophomore from Medford, Ore., was a state champ for two years as a prep.

MERRILL GLENN, a junior, is another outstanding 177-pound wrestler. A Brigham City, Utah boy, Glenn turned in a sterling performance against his Western State opponent.

Junior TED WILICH, 167 pounds, whipped his Colorado opponent 15-5, the most one-sided match of the meet. Wilich was a four-year high school letterman from Leonia, N.J.

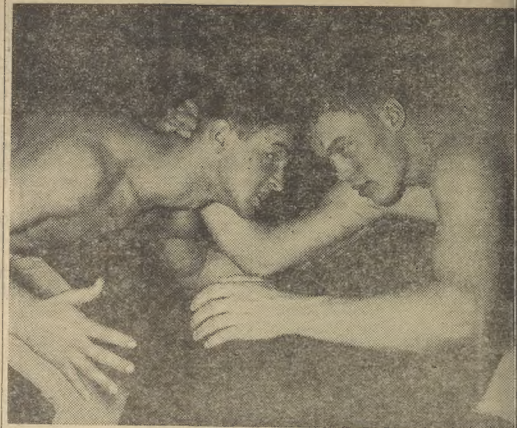

Sophomore LEROI DAVIES, state champion from Provo high school, wrestles in the 157-pound division and began his mat career as a senior prepster.

WES WILCOX is another Cougar who learned his wrestling at BYU. The Nampa, Ida. junior is in the 147-pound class, as is Wally Baker, Menlo Park, Calif. who is a four-year high school letterman.

Sophomore MILTON MOORE, 137-pounds, comes from Fruita, Colo. and won four letters as a prep.

ROGER OVERSON is a 130-pound sophomore who comes from Delta, Utah. Overson won the 123-pound AAU division in Salt Lake City last year. A state champ in high school for two years, Overson lettered four times.

WES PACKER, 123 pounds from Worland, Wyo., also won his division in the AAU meet. The burden of his grappling prowess has been learned at BYU.

GRUNT AND GROANERS—Dave Hanks and Paul Eckel, two of the mainstays on this year's wrestling squad, latch on to each other at the start of a practice bout. The cat matmen-go against Utah Saturday night following the basketball game.

Jerry's Jargon

by Jerry Cunningham

There are a few athletes on the campus of Brigham Young University who should be ashamed of themselves.

They are over-zealous intramural basketball players who gripe at the officials, gripe at their opponents and would probably gripe at a rich uncle if he left them a fortune.

Mark Twain said, "If you take in a starving dog and make him prosperous he won't bite you. That's the difference between a man and a dog."

Unfortunately sometimes this is true. It's true of a handful of intramural hoopers who are foolish enough to bite the hand that is feeding them.

The athletic department of BYU has organized, as a part of a far-flung intramural program, a basketball league which is one of the largest in the world.

It takes thousands of dollars and a large number of paid personnel to make the program function.

Why has the administration developed such an extensive athletic league? "To give the mass of students interested in a variety of sports at BYU a chance to compete," said William Hafen, director of intramurals.

In short, the intramural program is a SERVICE to the students. It is not a wise person who abuses a service.

So it seems to us that these few over-enthusiastic athletes who consider an intramural game a matter of life or death should make a few re-evaluations.

The will-to-win spirit is, of course, essential to all sports. But more important is a spirit of fair play and sportsmanship.

Hafen and his aids have organized a program that will compare favorably with any intra-college athletic system in the United States.

Autumn quarter activities alone involved more than 2,000 contestants participating in some 14 sports ranging from table tennis to a cross-country run.

Hafen is expanding the winter quarter program so that students will have a choice of activities ranging from checkers to prizefighting.

The basketball system takes in 86 teams, eight leagues and a thousand players. A schedule of 500 games will be necessary to draw play to completion.

The scheduling problem alone is enough to give Einstein himself a severe mental tussle.

Key To Future' Freshmen Learn Masaba Sport, Eye Varsity Berths

by Mark Murphy
UNHERALDED, unpublished completely overshadowed an exciting varsity basketball team are fourteen men who the key to Cougar plans the future.
 Coach Bob Bunker, freshman tutor, is once again hard at work with the unnoticed task of casting yearling cagers in the BYU mould that has shaped stars as Mel Hutchins, Ronald Minson, Harold Christensen, Herschel Pedersen and Ter-Tebbs.

LEARNING the BYU way of playing the round ball game are several embryo stars who have caught head coach Stan Watts' eye. Looking over the back-shoulder of those on the frosh roster is like reading the Who's Who of Utah high school cagers a year ago. Also on the list are several outstanding players from out of state.

With three major collegiate basketball powers ambitiously seeking talent it would appear that talent hunters were successful in skimming the cream of secondary school crop, much to the chagrin of other would-be farmers.

ON THIS year's frosh edition but three men are 6-1 or better. Coach Stan Watts' liking peppery little guards along the lines of Tebbs and Tom Linke indicates a rosy future for the hill top school for the new team shorties: Jim Demet, Earl Doman, 5-10, and Jim E, 5-8.

Tallest man for the frosh is a player of whom great things are expected. He's DICK SAWYER, 6-6, 180 lb. center from Lake City. Sawyer, according to Coach Bunker, is the possessor of a smooth hook shot that can be counted on for a basket of points every game.

LYNN GLEAVE, a Provo product, hits the 6-4 mark and plays forward. Gleave's main strength is grabbing off rebounds and smooth passing which has netted several scores in the Kittens' two games to date. Coach Bunker claims that slim Lynn is getting more of late and is capable of double figures in any game.

TEVE NIELSEN, solidly built 6-3, 185 pounder, hails from Springville and holds down forward slot. "He's sharp from outside," says Coach Bunker with a knowing wink.

DON HELM, "best jumper on the squad," stands 6-3, plays forward and is from Monticello.

GARY CRANDALL, forward, 6-3 and 170 lbs., is called a good long shot man by his boss and comes from Las Vegas, Nev.

Husky THOM BLOHM, sterling end for Max Tolbert's freshman footballers, is fast for a big man and a handy man on the boards.

CALVIN THORPE, 6-3, 181 lbs., is a forward from Springville.

RALPH FINLAYSON receives Coach Bunker's nod as the most improved man on the Kittens squad. Finlayson is a Seattle, Wash., ace, stands 6-2 and is another forward.

VARG CELAYA is another Washintonian from Moses Lake. Celaya is a 6-2, 182 lb. center. Celaya is particularly noted for his fine touch in the shooting department and adept passing.

VALOY EATON, forward, 6-2, 170 lbs., is a former high school favorite from Vernal. Eaton has a variety of good shots, states good-natured Coach Bunker.

LANNY NALDER, the quarterback-type, is a 6-1 guard from Shelley, Ida. He gets Bunker's nod as a steady scorer and a capable passer and playmaker.

EARL DOMAN, 5-10, 165 lb. guard from Ontario, Ore., is pointed out by Coach Bunker as one of the Kittens' sharpest defensive men.

JIM DEMET, fastest man on the team and an outstanding track man, is a Racine, Wis., product. Demet reaches the 5-9 mark and weighs in at 163.

JIM RICE, tiniest man on the frosh roster, stands 5-8 and is 150 lbs. Rice, a slick ball handler and possessor of a good shooting eye, hails from Caliente, Nev.

So far the Cubs have trampled two straight opponents, Hill Air Force Base and Utah State. This weekend will find the Kittens in their usual preliminary role with a replay of their Utah State scrap and another tiff with Hill Saturday night.

Champ Forced To Quit Ring

NEW YORK, (NS)—Featherweight Champion Sandy Saddler has announced his retirement from the ring because he is "gradually going blind" from injuries he suffered in an automobile accident.

Charley Johnston, Saddler's manager, said Saddler is in no physical condition to ever fight again. Johnston said there was a "fair chance" of saving Saddler's vision if he remained out of the ring.

Saddler, who was injured in an automobile accident last July, was stripped of his title last week by the National Boxing Association for failing to defend his title since last January.

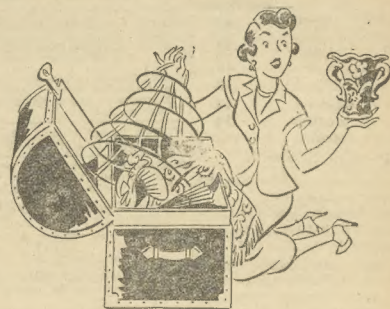

New York State Athletic Commissioner Julius Hofland failed to go along with the NBA suspension pending an examination of the slender champion.

Johnston said a physical examination by Saddler's personal physician, Dr. Thomas Matthews, disclosed the severe damage to his eyes which threatens to blind the 30-year-old New Yorker.

Mormons Came Later . . .

Spaniards First Valley Visitors

by Catherine Davies
Daily Universe Writer

ON THE CORNER of University Ave. and First South, in front of the City and County Building, stands a stone marker placed by the school children of Provo.

It notes that on Sept. 24, 25, 1776, two Spaniards, Fray Francisco Silvestre Velez de Escalante and Father Antanasio Dominguez, camped with their party on the site.

These were the first known white men to visit Utah Valley. Members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints first saw it three days after they arrived in Utah, on July 27, 1847.

ORSON PRATT is said to have viewed the lake from the Oquirrh Mountains. A week later Jesse C. Little, Samuel Brannan and W. W. Willis explored the valley.

Early pioneers were told by Brigham Young to teach the Indians to grow crops and to be civilized. They were not to mingle with them, however, and violators were blamed for later Indian troubles.

Fort Utah was established by Mormon settlers on April 1, 1849. It was renamed Provo City after a French-Canadian trapper, Etienne Provost, who is known to have been in this area in 1825.

PROVO'S charter was granted in 1851 by the General Assembly of the State of Deseret. Soon afterward the inhabitants faced a serious problem.

An Indian chief named Walker incited the Indians to rob and kill many settlers. Brigham Young ordered the building of a wall around the Provo settlement in 1853 for protection. The trouble ended with the death of Chief Walker on Jan. 29, 1855.

More difficulties came to the growing young city. The Utah Expedition, quartered an army at Camp Floyd which was unpopular with the Pioneers.

YOUNG WOMEN who mixed with the soldiers were frowned upon by the colonists. Judge Cradlebaugh's Second Judicial Court succeeded the army as disciplinarian and pretended to free citizens held "in bondage" to the Mormons.

First mayor of Provo was Eliza Ames. It was Utah's second largest city before the coming of the railroad brought added population to Ogden in 1871.

Among many businesses established in those early years was Provo Co-op. Begun in January, 1871, it was the first of its kind in Utah Territory.

BRIGHAM Young Academy was established in 1875 in one room by Karl G. Maeser at the direction of Brigham Young. There were 29 students in the first class.

Provo City Tabernacle was dedicated in 1883 at the cost of $100,000.
